

The Marlow Society

OSS-Station VICTOR

Hurley's Secret War

A talk by

Philip Williams

A top secret US communication station known by its codename 'Station VICTOR' was constructed and operated within the parish by the Office of Strategic Services (OSS), the forerunner to the CIA. Between 1943 & 1945 Station VICTOR became an essential communication link between "Secret agents" working in Nazi occupied Europe and the Allied High Command.

Tuesday, 27th March

Liston Hall, Chapel Street, SL7 1DD

at 8.00pm

Members £2.50, visitors £4.00

Refreshments will be available after the lecture

Philip's book, on which the talk is based, will be on sale